Individual Disability Insurance

An Easy Solution to Shrink the Coverage Gap

Standard Insurance Company

The Income Protection Gap

As you provide benefits for your highly compensated employees, consider this. The group long term disability insurance you offer them is a good foundation, but likely falls short of providing the income protection they need.

A typical LTD plan is designed to replace 60% of earnings. But the actual replacement amount for higher earners is usually much lower. The plan maximum may be too low for them, or their bonus income may not be covered. The result is a significant coverage gap.

Think about how difficult it would be for these employees to maintain their current lifestyles on LTD alone. You can help by partnering with The Standard.

The Solution

A solution to the coverage gap is to buy individual disability insurance to supplement LTD. This is easier said than done, however. Many people are put off by the barriers of underwriting and cost. Or they simply don't get around to buying an individual policy.

This is why an IDI plan makes sense. An IDI plan includes individual policies issued to each person in a group — without medical underwriting and at discounted rates. This is possible because the individual policies are bundled under a single employer's plan, spreading the risk across the group.

A big plus is that bonuses, distributions and other incentive income are covered earnings — something your highly compensated, top-performing employees will notice.

IDI Provides Greater Income Protection How IDI can help reduce the coverage gap

Assumes LTD plan of 40% income replacement to a $10,000 monthly plan maximum, coordinating with an IDI plan design of 75% replacement to a $10,000 monthly plan maximum, for a combined coverage maximum of $20,000 between plans.

Assumes LTD plan of 60% income replacement to a $10,000 monthly plan maximum, coordinating with an IDI plan design of 60% replacement to a $20,000 monthly plan maximum, for a combined coverage maximum of $30,000 between plans.

Reality Check

Including an IDI plan in your benefits package is a smart move. Because chances are, many of your employees — especially highly compensated ones — do not have adequate income protection.

They may think their odds of becoming disabled and unable to work are low.

Recent statistics show:

One of four 20-year-olds will become disabled before age 67.¹

About 90% of disabilities are caused by illnesses, not accidents.²

Recruitment and Retention

What better way to attract and keep the best and brightest than to offer great benefits with few barriers?

Platinum Advantage is a benefit that can help your employees feel more secure about their financial future.

Higher Benefits. Lower Barriers.

Platinum Advantage is a great fit for highly compensated employees — and a benefit you can help them get without having them jump through a lot of hoops.

It's a valuable plan to help protect your employees in case a disability prevents them from working. Monthly benefits can help them pay their bills, take care of their families and maintain their current lifestyles if they become ill or injured and cannot earn a paycheck.

Consider these major advantages:

- Discounted premium rates
- No medical underwriting and no financial documentation beyond the company-provided census
- Policies that are portable and individually owned
- Identical rates for women and men
- Coverage for employees up to age 99
- Insurance that covers incentive income, which may not be insured under LTD coverage
- Coverage that grows as employee incomes increase year over year
